

AT THE CAPITOL.

IMPORTANT RECOMMENDATION
OF MINISTER DAMON.Routine Business—Passage of Bills to Final Reading, Etc., Etc.

THURSDAY, June 15th.

The councils convened at 2:06 o'clock. Present—Ministers Dole, Mon, King and Smith; Council—Waterhouse, Emmelhuth, Menzies, Morgan, Suhr, Young, Tenney and Hatch.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Minister Damon reported a recommendation from the finance committee that the sum of $390 95 due Mr. L. Carter for expenses as commissioner to Washington be appropriated. Carried.

The minister of finance said he so wished to call the attention of the councils to a matter which had copied his mind ever since the he had been minister in 1888. He referred especially to the necessity that existed for some system of checking accounts in the auditor's department. He had conferred with the auditor general on the matter, and that official had told him that the auditor had no time to attend to the affairs of such a system. The minister did not wish to make such a system so formal a matter as was provided for under the old law, but wished to report and recommend the following method, which would be practicable, and could be used at any time:

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The finance committee recommend that the minister of finance through some properly authorized deputy, inquire from time to time from the different departments, on notification to the chief of the department; concerning—

- 1st. The date to which the books are posted, preceding the date of inquiry.
- 2nd. The comparison of the cash in hand, with the balance called for by the cash book.
- 3rd. The general condition of the books and system of keeping accounts.
- 4th. Improvements or changes that be suggested in the manner or form of keeping accounts.

Minister Damon said these recommendations were made with a view to bringing the different departments into touch with the finance department. Two years were entirely too long a time to run awaiting for the legislative finance committee to make investigations and report, as provided by law, therefore, this plan was recommended. He thought it would hold error in check in the departments and an investigation could be had at any time and could be made public by bringing the matter at once before the councils. He presented the plan as a report and recommendation of the finance committee.

Mr. Waterhouse asked if the intention was to make investigations in the form of expert examinations. Minister Damon said they could take either form.

Mr. Emmelhuth moved the adoption of the report. Carried.

Attorney General Smith said he had a sort of semi-report to offer. There was a small account of $34 24 due the road board account. He moved that the matter be referred, together with a letter on the subject from road supervisor Cummings, to the finance committee. Carried.

Second reading of an act relating to pounds, estrays, brands and marks. Passed to its final reading by three-fourths majority.

Second reading of an act to increase the facilities to depositors and providing for term deposits in the Hawaiian postal savings bank. Passed to final reading.

Attorney General Smith moved that the bill relating to the use and possession of explosives be taken from the table and considered section by section. Carried.

Mr. Smith moved the first section be amended so that the maximum penalty be increased from ten to twenty years. He said twenty years was not too long a period where dynamite was used for destroying life. This would make the penalty the same as for manslaughter in the first degree. The court could use discretion, as it now could in such cases. The amendment was carried.

Mr. Smith moved, as an amendment to section 2, a new section relating purely to the possession of dynamite with intent to use the same. In this amendment his proposal was to eliminate all liability from the original bill. This was now taken away and the section would apply simply to the possession of dynamite with intent to use it. The use of ammunition for firearms was now exempt. He moved the passage of the amended section.

President Dole said he did not think that the section, as amended, covered the whole ground. Section 3 should be included.

Mr. Smith said he saw no objection to making section 3 a part of section 2, as an amendment to the original bill.

Mr. Young asked if he would be liable under the law if he purchased half a ton of dynamite for blasting purposes.

Mr. Smith said he would not.

President Dole said Mr. Emmelhuth had suggested a way to get around the difficulty, by licensing the use of dynamite just as firearms are licensed. The executive council had considered this, but thought the present form more simple.

Mr. Emmelhuth thought the proposed section did not help the difficulty.

Mr. Smith said there was already an act which covered importations, and a license would be very much like a permit; it would work hard ship. He thought the law, as amended, would be sufficient to cover the defect.

Mr. Emmelhuth said the license system would prevent irresponsible persons from using dynamite.

The amendment to Section 3 passed.

Section 4 was passed with a slight amendment relating to the application of bail under the law.

Sections 5 and 6 were passed.

The title was amended to include "the unlawful use or possession of explosives."

The bill was then passed as a whole.

Attorney General Smith asked whether the bills already passed and signed were deposited with the minister of interior, as provided by law.

President Dole said, as yet they were deposited in the foreign office.

Ordered to be deposited with the minister of interior hereafter.

Mr. Bolte, of the military committee, read the following report on the recommendation to pay the drum major $30 per month:

HONOLULU, June 13, 1893.

To Hon. Sanford B. Dole, President, and to the members of the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, Honolulu.

GENTLEMEN,—Your undersigned committee, to whom this matter was referred, beg to recommend that the request of Colonel Soper, "to pay $30 a month for instructing the battalion drum corps to W. C. King, drum-major," be complied with.

Yours, ALEX. YOUNG, Military Committee.

Mr. Emmelhuth asked if the $50 a month paid to captains of the companies was also for incidentals.

President Dole said he did not think it was a fact that the officers in question were paid $50 per month for incidental expenses. The captains spent a large portion of their actual time, taken from their business, in performing their duties, and the amount was to pay them for extra services.

Mr. Morgan asked if the report had been signed by a majority of the committee, and if they had met to consider the matter.

Mr. Bolte answered yes to both questions. He then moved that the report be accepted, and the money appropriated. Carried.

The councils went into special session at 2:55 p.m.

SPEEDY TRAVEL.

The Exposition Flyer Reaches
Chicago Ahead of Time.

CHICAGO, May 29.—The West-bound Exposition flyer over the New York central road, which left New York yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to make the trip to Chicago in twenty hours, arrived here at 9:50 A.M., three minutes ahead of time.

The entire trip was made without incident or accident. Generally between the stations the train was slightly ahead of time, and where the engines were changed the shift was generally made quickly enough to allow of pulling out even with the schedule.

Terrific speed was developed at times. On one stretch of ten miles the time was 6 minutes 3 seconds, or a small fraction over 99 miles per hour. At South Chicago the train was five minutes behind time, but it was made up on the run into the city, with three minutes to spare. It is thought that the city ordinances governing speed were broken to fragments to do it.

EXACTLY ON TIME.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The fast-bound Exposition flyer, which left Chicago at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, arrived at 11:15 this morning, exactly on time.

WILL BECOME A KANAKA.

Why Captain Melander Has Fitted Out the Tulenkan.

Close up to the seawall between piers Howard 1 and Howard 2 is a fifty-ton schooner in the white coat of paint usually affected by vessels going to the tropics. The schooner is the Tulenkan, which was spick and span new every timber of her when she left Turner's yard at Benicia a week ago. There is a thread of romance in the yarn of the Tulenkan and her skipper.

Captain J. V. Melander, who had the vessel built to his order, is both skipper and owner. Moreover he has been a lifelong skimmer of the tropical waters of the Pacific ocean. In the fulness of time Captain Melander, who is a thrifty Scandinavian, made and saved a little money. Two or three years ago he put into the principal ports of the Caroline islands and became so enchanted with life out there that he determined to settle down on one of the group and spend the remainder of his days on the coral sands.

Among other things he took to himself a wife and brought her over here on a flying trip. The lady did not take kindly to the difference between five degrees of north latitude, so Melander went back again and built a house on Strong's island, which is the principal missionary settlement on the Caroline group.

"I'm going to become a Kanaka," said Melander, obviously meaning that he was weary of white civilization and wanted to drift into the placid contentment and ambitionless life of Oceania—"where creditors cease from troubling and debtors are at rest."—[S. F. Examiner.]

MISTAKES OF HISTORIANS.

There is no historic authority for the statement that little George Washington cut down the cherry tree.

The Pharaoh of the Exodus was not drowned in the Red sea. His mummy has been found, the skull split by a battle-axe.

Cesar did not say "Et tu, Brute." Eye-witnesses to the assassination deposed that "he died fighting, but silent, like a wolf."

Wellington, at Waterloo, did not say: "Up, guards, and at them." The words were put into his mouth by a lively English writer.

Richard III. was not a hunchback, but a soldier of fine form, some pretensions to good looks and great personal strength and courage.

General Cambronne did not say, "The guard dies, but does not surrender." The words were the invention of a Paris journalist and attributed to him.

Cesar did not cross the Rubicon; it lay on the opposite side of the Italian peninsula from the point where he left his own possessions and entered Italy.

Pocahontas did not save the life of John Smith. It has been ascertained that this worthy man was the most able-bodied prevaricator of this century.

Alfred the Great did not visit the Danish camp disguised as a minstrel. There is no good reason to believe that he could either play the harp or speak Danish.

Columbus did not foretell an eclipse of the moon to frighten the natives of Jamaica into rendering him assistance. There was no eclipse of the moon at that time.

Lucrecia Borgia was not the bad woman she is represented. Recent investigations have shown that she suffered in reputation on account of the wickedness of her kinsfolk.

Alexander the Great did not weep for other worlds to conquer. There is reason to suspect that his army met with a serious reverse in India, a fact that induced him to retrace his steps.

Worshippers are not crushed by hundreds under the wheels of the car of Juggernaut. The car has not been taken out of the temple for many years, and such deaths as formerly occurred were exceptional or accidental.

Columbus did not make an egg stand on end to confute his opponents. The feat was performed by Brunelleschi, the architect, to silence critics who asked him how he was going to support the dome of the cathedral of Florence.

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon did not hang, nor were they gardens. They were terraces, supported by arches and overgrown with trees. They were erected for the amusement of a Babylonian queen who had come from a mountainous country.

The Pass of Thermopylae was defended not by 300, but by at least 7000 Greeks, or, according to some writers, 12,000. The 300 were the Spartan contingent who showed no more bravery on that occasion than their companions in arms from other Greek States.

The siege of Troy was mostly a myth. According to Homer's own figures, if there ever was such a man as Homer, Helen must have been at least sixty years of age when she first met Paris, and even in the heroic period of the world, women of that age were a trifle passe.

Louis XVI. did not behave with overwhelming dignity at his execution. On the contrary, he screamed for help, struggled with the executioners and begged for mercy. Nor did the attendant priest say: "Son of St. Louis, ascend to heaven." The expression was used for him by a Paris evening paper.—[Globe-Democrat.]

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since." PETER J. BRIDGES, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.
